

Author's chair

He talks • you write • the class acts it

1 Take it

Sit with the sheet in front of you. “Tell me a story. I’ll write down exactly what you say.”

2 Keep up

If you fall behind: “wait — let me catch up.” Never “say that again, shorter.”

3 Never change

His words, not better ones. the dog he runned fast goes down exactly like that.

4 One chance

Read the whole thing back aloud. Ask once: “Is that right? Anything else?” Then it is finished.

5 He casts it

Write the cast in the corner. He chooses who plays what. Then: “Now draw it.”

6 Act it — 4 minutes

He sits in the chair. You read it slowly, exactly as written. Three actors, no props, ever. Clap for the author. Say his name.

Nothing is marked. Nothing is corrected. The audience is the control of error.
